Today's vote of millions at the polls will express their political opinions. It's a great deal of trouble, every four years, the English do it more simply, but it seems the only way for this country.

There is always something cheerful to be said. After the day you will have four political groups for some time.

Dr. Katsura Nishi, last to give health advice to the Japanese imperial family, moves there that would be true to it.

"Let us give back and oscillate the whole body as a fish might." The learned Dr. Nishi, 80 years old, is a fish, hard, but, sleeping on the back with the head on a hard rounded pillow.

Americans who do not want to oscillate like a goldfish would still the learned Japanese doctor that they never heard of any Japanese living in 120 or a century, either. The average man would rather live a reasonable length of time, say 100 years, and leave oscillating to goldfish and others that have time for it.

News from Japan more important than the memorial service for the slain of dead empire, or the advice of the Japanese doctor for Katsura Nishi to "lie on your back and oscillate the body as a goldfish might."

The big news is that Japan as the champion of the world, the champion of a Japanese farmer, the champion of a Japanese hen laid 561 eggs in 12 hours and 26 minutes. The United States lay down in 1934-1935 laid 560 eggs at Corvallis, Ore., and our federal agents refuse to accept the Japanese record, because it is not official. That may annoy Farmer Kishi, Nishikawa, but not his hen.

In an important speech at Milan, Mussolini defines Bolshevism and Communism as follows:

"What is called Bolshevism and Communism is today—nothing but a new, very super-capitalism of a state carried to its most ferocious extreme."

The nation, the poor "super-capitalist" responsible for Stalin, would be thought to be hated.

The League of Nations might as well be killed off, since it is no longer much anything, says Mussolini, and add:

"It is necessary to destroy everything built on Woodrow Wilson's ideology."

If the late President Wilson read newspapers where he is now, that he would surprise him; he was in Europe many times, and he was taking down pictures of Garibaldi substituting photographs of Woodrow Wilson.

Of many admirable things said in the churches last Sunday, the best was said by the Reverend Hubert Stanley Wood, suggesting that churches stop selling "damned" things.

The "Heavenly Host" and substitute "ACTION" for "read."

Wood does not like the word "action," says the Reverend, because "there's got to be life, energy and progress."

Most true today, with movies and radio compelling.

A sad accident that ends the life of a woman, and which should be mentioned to warn others and mothers. In the evening Mrs. Klein went to a moving picture, Mr. Klein, who had worked hard all day, sat in an arm chair. The baby cried, the father put it beside him in the chair, went to sleep, leaned over the baby and smothered it.

In England, formerly, there were many dead babies called "over-laid babies," because fathers or mothers took them in beds and rolled on them in their sleep.

Less drunkenness has meant fewer "over-laid" babies.

The young English King continues to show interest in a class of Englishmen that have interested other English kings but little. Determined to see for himself what kind of human beings are his subjects, the king will visit the "distressed areas" of Smith's Water, particularly mining districts, where suffering is greatest.

He dropped into J. P. Patterson's barber shop in New Bedford and then went to the office of Mark Mitchell and J. W. Compton, independent oil operators, for a chat.

THE AS AMERICANS, GOV. LONDON'S FINAL APPEAL

KANSAN PLEADS FOR LIBERTY, CLEAN GOVERNANCE

Topeka, Nov. 3.—The text of Governor Alf M. Landon's final radio appeal to the electorate follows:

During the last four months I have traveled through many parts of the country and seen many miles. It has been my privilege to meet thousands of citizens and to address thousands more.

Everywhere I have seen great numbers of men and women who have given both heart and energy in making clear, as they understand them, the issues that face the country. To these men and women I want to pay my tribute for performing the duties of citizenship.

There has been no campaign for many years in which they have been so active in their responsibility.

It is the basic principle of the American form of government that so long as our citizens understand the issues that are before them, their decision will be the right decision.

It is the basic principle of our form of government that the people must act with safety to the individual of the people as a whole. It is the basic principle of our form of government that the people must act with safety to the individual of the people as a whole.

The governor arrived about 8 a. m. from Topeka on the Sunflower special train on which he has campaigned for 20,000 miles around the country from coast to coast.

With the governor were Mrs. Landon, Peggy Ann, his daughter, and a large number of his family.

They were given an enthusiastic welcome by the hundreds of citizens who had gathered around the front-covered station to welcome the town's most distinguished son.

There were shouts of "Hello Alf" all over the place.

"I'm glad to be here," shouted the governor.

The governor and his family were placed at the head of a long parade of automobiles which circled around the city.

A dense crowd was packed around the city and the governor was seen from every angle.

One of them came to Talavera, marked by two white fighters and divided in flames. His two black horses were galloping forward, but his parachute failed and they crashed.

Further mass bombing by Madrid's planes was expected to be in progress at the White territory.

This is the beginning of the last week of the Red rule, the read, "You had better believe that you are going to be read."

At the same time, furious aerial warfare continued and became more intense as Madrid's bombers poured down on the White territory.

CURLEY HELDS DEMOCRATIC SWEEP

By WILLIAM C. CONWAY

Democratic state ticket candidates—all confident of victory—led the march to the polls today, while party leaders watched reverently by being out the full voting strength in the state.

Prediction that he would be elected United States Senator by a 200,000 plurality and that his state ticket colleagues would be returned victors by 150,000 pluralities was made today by Governor James M. Curley.

"This victory will be even greater than I anticipated 30 days ago," Governor Curley said.

Governor Curley, standard-bearer of the Democratic party, and his daughter, Mrs. Mary Curley Donnelly, led the march to the polls when they cast their ballots in the Mary E. Curley school, Jamaica Plain.

Accompanying Governor Curley and his daughter were Paul and Leo Curley, the governor's eldest sons.

In Cambridge, State Treasurer Mrs. Charles F. Curley, who held her ballot in the Russell school from which the Democratic gubernatorial primary graduates, where his three eldest children are students.

BIG RECEPTION

Governor Curley, battling against odds and fighting off a severe cold which curtailed his activities in the closing hours of the battle, concluded the day's work at a public life at an early hour today.

More than 1000 persons met the gubernatorial candidate at the street level, with one exception, fought for victory at the polls. The candidates included Representative Francis (F.) of California, Governor (G.) of Massachusetts, and Governor (G.) of New Jersey, and Captain (C.) of New York.

"I am going to Washington, not for the benefit of Curley," I am going down there for a noble purpose. I am going to do some work for all the people of the United States."

"I have no fear of the outcome of this election. I have no fear of the outcome of this election. I have no fear of the outcome of this election."

Swing in Congress Control of House Sought at Polls

G. O. P. Out to Cut 35 U. S. Contests for Senate

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service Staff Correspondent

New York, Nov. 3.—Victory in the fight for control of the national House of Representatives, which carries control of the nation's purse-strings—was claimed by both Democratic and Republican leaders as voters trooped to the polls today.

Rise of spending and the big treasury deficits as a campaign issue centered more than usual attention on the House fight.

The Constitution, the "popular branch" of Congress alone has power to initiate the big annual appropriation bills.

The victory claim of Representative Charles Bolton, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign, was reinforced by Representative Patrick Drewry, Democratic campaign chairman, who said that the Democrats would retain their job.

The drive of Father Charles E. Townsend, chairman of the Catholic League for Social Justice, and Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old-age pension organizer, to elect friends and members was fully as intense as those of the other parties.

Harvard Gets Out Of Football Doghouse While 1000's Cheer

IT LOOKS AS THOUGH HARVARD MAY undergo a spiritual rebirth following its miracle tie in the football game with the Princeton. It has been many years since Harvard has had a reason to yell its full, conscientious motto's worth. But after Bob Stuart's twilight touchdown and Charley Allen's goal kick of last Saturday the Harvard rered back on their concrete slopes and made up several years of back yelling in a space of a few minutes. And when they went away they indulged in some half-forgotten snake-dance steps and let off some rusty curly-wolf howls in a kind of self-conscious good humor.

Austen Lake

Harvard's football season has been a disappointment, but the change without a win as a sentimental whim. The last thing the Harvard fans wanted was a blurt. And the souvenir hunters raised their mournful, sunset blues, looking to see some of their left over stocks of feathers and cardboard footballs strung on colored ribbons. But the Harvard wouldn't go for such truck because the winning colors were usually purple, blues, orange and every hue of the spectrum except crimson.

HEIGHT OF INDIFFERENCE

IT IS NOW TWO YEARS SINCE CERTAIN adolescent wags in the Harvard cheering section raised painted streamers after each Yale touchdown which read "Who cares?" and "Help yourself, Yale," indicating that the pranksters had anticipated their humiliation and wished to turn it into something brave and beautiful.

It was a calamity when Harvard lost, and they didn't lose one to Princeton between 1912 and 1921, which was about the time that permanent case of tolerance set in, and preoccupied kids like Ralph Clark, the 1925 football captain, could hear an "Oversimplification" phrase and preached the gospel of boredom.

OXFORD AUSTERITY BEGINS

DURING THE HEIGHT OF THE HAUGHTON boom Harvard would have been willing to let its larynx loose for anything so casual as a tie with Princeton, which was a kind of country cousin who had horned into adult society about 1911. ROSE BOWL HOPES RISE

By WALTER KILEY
Andy Kerr and his Colgate Red Raiders will meet an improved Holy Cross football team next Saturday afternoon.

The big improvement will be the return of Henry "Snooper" Ouellette, flashy little quarterback, who last year and Harry Brown, star of 1925 and 1926, were the mainstay of the team.

See Victory

It is a long time for more than a year that the Red Raiders have been down a great deal from the top of the list.

But when an opponent has no reason to fear from them, it then turns out to be a great deal more than a mere bluff.

Injuries to Stars Wreck Chances of Virginia

Those fighting Harvard—completely rested after Saturday's grueling tussle with the Princeton—swing back into action at Soldiers Field today.

An additional day of rest—the first of the season—was granted to most of the players who saw action in Saturday's game to allow the boys to recuperate before the "Crimson Express" thunders into the backstretch of the '26 grid season with only a Cavalier, a post and a landing in its path.

The Cavalier—a Gentleman, said from Virginia—will attempt to flag the squad, with one exception, rounded into form quite after a day of rest.

Kessler Out
The little player whose injury is a little more serious than the rest is Charlie Kessler, the veteran guard of three years and outstanding member of the stout Harvard center line.

Charles's right hand was split open late in the game, and although he is carrying it around in a sling, the injury is not serious and he could possibly take his place in the second lineup if the coaches needed him.

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HEIT OF EVERYBODY.

Here's a yarn with more than a touch of the sinister in it. Fiction writers take a long way to make their villains seem evil, but the villain of this yarn doesn't have to give in a bit to us.

FLOYD GERBESS, Houston, Texas, is a writer, producer and director. He is the author of the book, My Life as a Slave, which was published in 1998. He is also the author of the book, My Life as a Slave, which was published in 1998.

In fact, he might have stepped right out of the calendar of one of those old-fashioned serial thrillers we also used to follow so religiously, as he does when the motion picture begins with a scene, and rough intentions, and a look and show in the same way, and with three scenes that start from the same place.

[illegible]

Floyd Gibbons will pay good money for good TRF E adventure stories. Hundreds of people in Boston and nearby towns have received ten-dollar and hundred-dollar bills for their yarns, and there's no reason why you can't do the same, for, as Floyd says, everybody has had at least one adventure. Fred A. Carlson of 57 Deaconess road, Boston, won one hundred and ten dollars for the story of his life's biggest moment, and you can do the same. For further details, see the box at the right side of the page.
